Hearing services for all ages

at the Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic

IOWA

THE AUDIOLOGY CARE TEAM

The Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic, the training center for students seeking their graduate degrees in audiology and speech-language pathology, provides its students with a foundation of strong academic and real-world clinical experiences. The clinic serves approximately 700 clients each year.

The Audiology Clinic provides diagnostic and treatment services of all ages with hearing concerns, using best practices as recommended by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association. We offer comprehensive hearing testing; complete amplification services including the selection, fitting and follow-up care of hearing aids; aural rehabilitation; and hearing conservation advice and fitting of hearing protection.

Your audiology care team includes a graduate student clinician on their way to earning a clinical doctorate in audiology and their mentors – audiologists in the state of Iowa and certified by the American Speech-Language Hearing Association – Julie Jeon, Stephanie Fleckenstein, Danielle Kelsay, and Kellsie Busho.

WHY CHOOSE US FOR YOUR AUDIOLOGY NEEDS?

Quality of care: As a teaching clinic, not only do you receive care from talented young professionals in training, they are supervised every step of the way by highly-experienced experts in the field of audiology.

Academic excellence: The graduate program in audiology at the University of Iowa is ranked the second-best in the entire United States. That means you receive the best that the field of communication sciences has to offer.

Experience: Our audiology faculty has more than 75 years of combined experience. With this broad knowledge base, we are equipped to help clients with a wide variety and / or complex audiology needs.

Collaborative partners: Our clinical audiologists work side by side with leading researchers in hearing sciences. They are our partners in developing quality improvements and therapies that lead to rewarding outcomes.

Commitment to serving all clients' needs: We take the time to provide quality hearing health care for our patients as well as ensure optimal clinical experiences for our graduate student clinicians. We will answer your questions and explain our procedures, results, and recommendations with enough detail to help you feel at ease.

We accept self-referrals and referrals from physicians, teachers, speech-language pathologists, and others. Our staff submits claims to many health insurance companies, Medicare, and Medicaid. We offer a sliding fee scale to those who qualify, basing fees on annual income and family size.
